THE INTERNATIONAL SYMPOSIUM

“PERFORMANCE THROUGH PARTNERSHIPS”

3rd Edition

*“Do not go where the path may lead, go instead where there is no path and leave a trail.” ~
Ralph Waldo Emerson*

ARGUMENT

In the context of an ever-changing society, in shape and form, operating changes at the level of all its subsystems, Romanian education needs to assume a new perspective on its functionality and evolution. Within this perspective, educational partnership must become a priority, using strategies oriented to the development of Romanian education.

In order for this partnership to become a real solution to the problems of education, certain strategies must be developed, a direction that will unite partnership efforts, naming the role assumed by the partnered institutions.

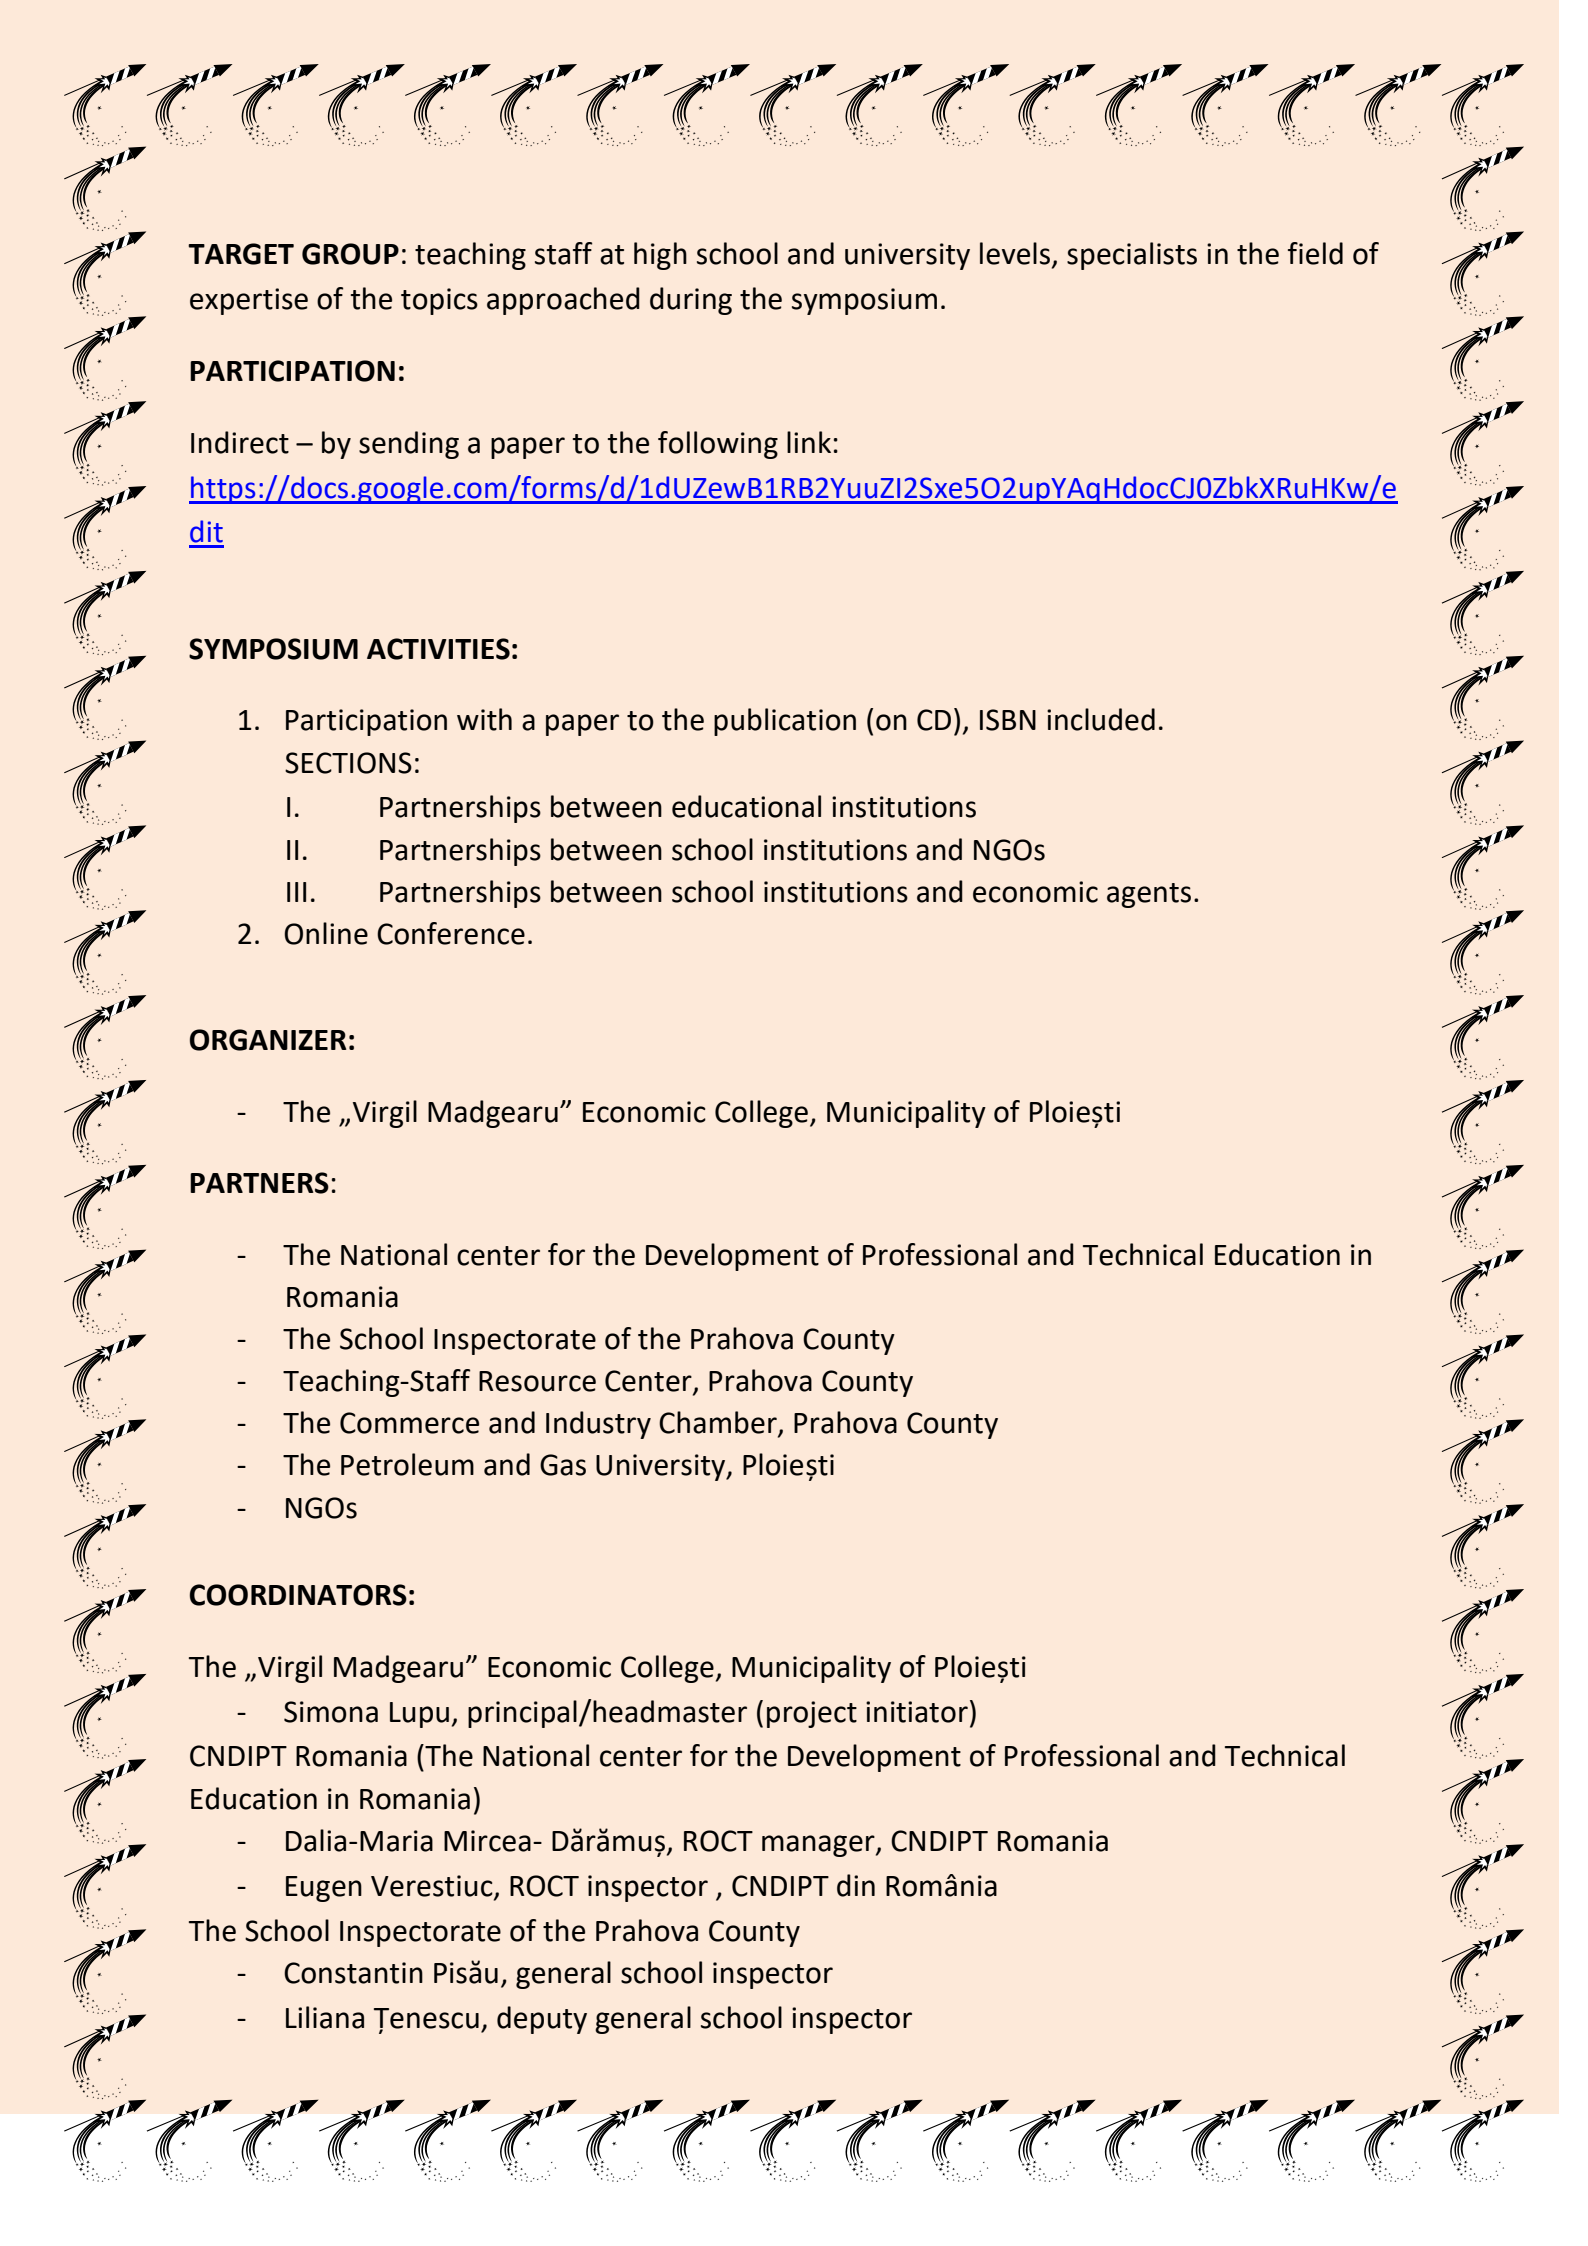

Given the complexity of the problems Romanian school is facing, as well as the impact of school education on the entire social system, finding solutions to present difficulties needs the collaboration, cooperation and partnership of large categories, such as:

- Teaching staff;
- All student categories;
- Students’ families;
- Central or local government organizations;
- Non-governmental organizations;
- Religious cults representatives;
- Economic agents;
- Unions;
- Local and central authorities.

To achieve a partnership based on democratic values, our society needs to change values, attitudes and behaviors with all the factors involved: persons in decision-making position, school staff, families, students, government and non-government representatives, aiming for equality of chances in education, encouraging initiative and participation, developing cooperation and collaboration, status of discipline and responsibility.
